TOPIC

Empowering Young Adults with Life Skills

Synopsis of the Resource Talk

Women's Empowerment Cell 2022-23 has organized a Guest Lecture delivered by Dr. Rupa Selvaraj, a remarkable teacher, counselor, and consultant psychologist. Dr. Rupa has been awarded the M.A., M.Phil., PGDC, and Ph.D. degrees from Andhra University, Visakhapatnam. She has also been a resource person for numerous workshops and seminars. She is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Psychology, SJCW(A). The session focused on various skill sets teenagers and young adults should develop to get through tasks in our daily lives, both personal and professional, effectively, and efficiently. These include Self-Awareness, Communication Skills, Decision Making, Critical Thinking, Creativity, Leadership, Problem-Solving and more. There was a special emphasis on Emotional Intelligence, Empathy, and Emotional Quotient (EQ). The importance of harboring such skill sets is illustrated. Having realistic and attainable goals, taking calculated risks, being up to date with recent trends and research findings, and taking responsibility for the freedom given are a few of the practices highly encouraged in this session. It has been an interactive session boosting confidence among students.

TOPIC – Personal Hygiene

Synopsis of the Resource Talk

- Good hygiene is important for teenage health and confidence. Basic hygiene is washing your hands, cleaning your body and teeth, and covering your mouth when coughing. Teenage hygiene also involves periods, body odor, shaving, and more. Three main physical changes come with adolescence: The growth spurt (an early sign of maturation); Primary sex characteristics (changes in the organs directly related to reproduction); Secondary sex characteristics (bodily signs of sexual maturity that do not directly involve reproductive organs over the course of the second decade, adolescents develop stronger reasoning skills, logical and moral thinking, and become more capable of abstract thinking and making rational judgments.

TOPIC: Understanding Mental Health from a Psychosocial Perspective.

Synopsis of the Resource Talk

The session aimed to create an awareness about mental health and well-being and how psychosocial factors namely, physical health, interpersonal and social relationships, disability, identities like caste, religion, gender, and sexual orientation, and socio-cultural factors can have an impact on an individual's mental health. Mental health is not a binary concept i.e. one is not either mentally healthy or ill. Mental health falls on a continuum, ranging from excellent mental health to severe symptoms of distress (WHO). Further into the session, an activity called 'Privilege walk' was facilitated to create sensitivity towards factors affecting mental health and well-being. Students were introduced to the concept of intersectionality. Intersectionality is defined as 'the interconnected nature of social categorizations such as race, class, and gender, regarded as creating overlapping and interdependent systems of discrimination or disadvantage'(Oxford Dictionary). It was discussed how discrimination, social isolation, and lack of access to equal spaces and opportunities could contribute to poor mental health and that a mental health professional must take cognizance of these factors while offering support.

Miss. Alekhya Vegi, English Faculty and HR of PEN Schools, Visakhapatnam.

TOPIC-Connect The Dots

Alekhya. V, a resource person, discussed the biography of Steve Jobs and his profound impact on humanity. Jobs, alongside Steve Wozniak, co-founded Apple Inc. in 1976, pioneering the personal computer era and leading Apple to become a global telecommunications leader. Renowned as a visionary and genius, he spearheaded groundbreaking products like the iPod and iPhone. Born in 1955 and raised in Cupertino, California, Jobs' early interests ranged from engineering to Buddhism, which he explored during a trip to India after dropping out of Reed College. He also played a pivotal role in establishing Pixar Animation Studios. Diagnosed with pancreatic cancer in 2003, Jobs underwent significant medical procedures, including a Whipple operation and a liver transplant in 2009. Stepping down as CEO of Apple in 2011, he passed away at the age of 56, leaving behind a lasting legacy.
