Rationale

Enhancing Teaching Excellence: Innovations and Trends in English Language & Literature

Teaching English language and literature in contemporary times demands a blend of tradition and innovation. As we navigate the challenges of the 21st-century classroom, educators must be equipped with both pedagogical depth and technological adaptability.

This Faculty Development Program is designed to address the emerging trends and innovations in the teaching of English. It aims to provide a platform for faculty members to:

- ★ Explore innovative strategies for teaching language and literature
- ★ Gain exposure to the integration of technology in classroom practices
- ★ Understand learner-centered approaches and outcome-based education
- ★ Engage with current research and interdisciplinary methodologies.

The FDP aligns with the objectives of the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, which emphasizes professional development, continuous learning, and the promotion of critical and creative thinking among students.

By bringing together experienced professionals, researchers, and educators from across the country, this program seeks to foster a collaborative learning environment where teaching excellence is discussed, practiced, and refined.

We hope that this initiative will meaningfully contribute to the academic and professional growth of every participant and inspire a culture of innovation, inquiry, and excellence in our institutions.

Though we meet virtually, our shared commitment to teaching excellence and innovation brings us together as one academic community. Over the next five days, we look forward to engaging sessions by eminent speakers who will offer fresh perspectives on language and literature pedagogy.

Thank you all for joining us, and I encourage you to make the most of this enriching experience.

Formalist critics focus on the structure and form of the text itself. 2. Structuralists analyze how texts relate to broader systems like language and myth. 3. Post-structuralists look for contradictions and question the idea of fixed meanings. 4. Structuralist thinkers like Claude Lévi-Strauss study how myths and stories follow universal structures and binary oppositions. 5. Instead of searching for a single meaning, post-structuralists uncover instability in texts, revealing how language often contradicts itself.	5	5	-

The Topic was "Pedagogical Approaches in Literary Criticism". However, the Speaker failed to address the topic. It was more of attending a Lecture on the different Theories and Aspects of Literary Criticism than on the Pedagogical Approaches that can be adopted to teach the Course "Literary Criticism" 4. The Speaker should have talked about teaching Literary Criticism rather than discussing and explaining the different Critical Theories. It certainly deviated from the motive/intention of an FDP! 5. Perhaps the Speaker forgot that an FDP is for Teachers mainly and its about how they can improve upon their Teaching Skills 6. The Speaker could have touched upon such Pedagogical Approaches in teaching Literary Criticism like Critical Literacy, Reflective Pedagogy, Inquiry-based Learning, Collaborative Learning, Creative Writing Method, Real-world Approach, etc. that can be used in	1	1	The Organisers should have invited Speakers like Dr. Mohamed Shafeeq Karinkurayil from Manipal Centre for Humanities, MAHE, or Dr. Dhurjati Sarma from Gauhati University for a topic such as today's. They would have done absolute justice to the topic. Apologies for going overboard, but the standard set by the last two day's Speakers had raised the bar for this FDP and it was not possible that today's session matched with the previous two.

The sessions by Dr. Padma, Dr. Karun Sagar Kanda and Dr. Vishwa Prasad were enriching and insightful. However, the sessions by Dr. Sayi Bala and Dr. Satya Phani Kumari were far below average and simply disappointing. Respectfully, they did not do justice to their respective topics. Also, I would appreciate if the webinars started and ended on time as we all have several commitments. Better technical management could be done e.g. the resource persons can send their PPT to the organisers in advance for screening. Finally, modify the WhatsApp group settings so that unnecessary spam by participants is avoided and only the admins can make announcements. Overall, a good initiative.
